

FSBEI HE "Chelyabinsk State University"
Faculty of History and Philology

SUMMARIES OF COURSE PROGRAMMES

46.04.01. "HISTORY"

Master's degree programme "European and American studies"

Head of the Department of Political Science and
International Relations
(Department)
PhD in Historical Sciences
A. M. Skvortsov

Head of Master's degree programme: Doctor of Historical Sciences, Professor of Political science and international relations
department
V.V. Grudzinskii

Description
of the course programme
"Quantitative methods and information technologies in the humanities research" Б1.Б.1

Field of study 46.04.01 History
The focus of the programme: European and American studies
Qualification obtained master
Programme mode intramural
Faculty of History and Philology
Department of history of Russia and foreign countries

| | |
|---|---|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 72 hours; 2 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to give an overview of the possibilities and limitations of information technologies and quantitative methods of analysis application in humanities research. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.Б1, 1st semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | - |
| Further (supported) courses | New museum technologies and exhibition activities Source studies of general history |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | OK-1,3, OIK-4,6 ПК-1,2,3,4,8. |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: possibilities and limitations of applied methods of mathematics and statistics in historical research. Students will be able to: find interdisciplinary perspectives in the study of history, referring to the data of the exact sciences; Students will have the following skills: analysis procedure of historical sources using mathematical tools |
| Primary course topics | Quantitative methods of historical information analysis; Information technologies in historical research |
| Types of education work in the course: | Laboratory classes – 28 hours; Student's individual work – 44 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Laboratory classes |
| Course attestation form | Pass |

Description
of the course programme
"Legal and ethical aspects of professional activity" Б1.Б2

Field of study 46.04.01 History

The focus of the programme: European and American studies

Qualification obtained master

Programme mode intramural

Faculty of History and Philology

Department of history of Russia and foreign countries

| | |
|---|--|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 72 hours; 2 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to study legal and ethical aspects of professional activities in teaching, archaeology, protection of monuments of historical and cultural heritage, research work, etc. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.Б2, 3rd semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | Practice for obtaining primary professional skills |
| Further (supported) courses | Practice for obtaining professional skills and experience |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | ОПІК-5; ПІК-6 |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: regulatory framework in professional activity of a historian, and ethical standards of the corporation. Students will be able to: apply regulatory legal acts in their professional work. Students will have the following skills: procedure of working with historical information, documents, historical knowledge in various aspects of professional activities |
| Primary course topics | Theory of law Labour law as a branch of law Ethical aspects of professional activities |
| Types of education work in the course: | Lectures – 10 hours; Seminars – 10 hours; Student's individual work – 52 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Review work |
| Course attestation form | Pass |

Description
of the course programme
"Sociological concepts in historical studies" Б1.Б3

Field of study 46.04.01 History
The focus of the programme: European and American studies
Qualification obtained master
Programme mode intramural
Faculty of History and Philology
Department of political science and international relations

| | |
|---|--|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 108 hours; 3 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to give an overview of basic sociological concepts used in modern historical research. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.Б3, 1st semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | - |
| Further (supported) courses | Methodology of modern historical research |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | ОПК-3,6; ПК-2 |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: basic sociological concepts; information about the authors, the content of the concepts, examples of their application in historical research. Students will be able to: применять социологические концепции в исследовательской деятельности. Students will have the following skills: procedure of working with historical information, documents, historical knowledge from the perspective of sociology of science. |
| Primary course topics | "Understanding sociology" of M. Weber and history. Behaviorism in historical research. Sociology of Neo-Marxism. Symbolic interactionism and sociological phenomenology as a historical method. Theories of nationalism as a model of history and sociology interaction. Functionalism in historical research. Structuralist interpretation of history. Sociological theories of historical origin and peculiarities of political elites. Bourdieu socio-analysis and historical science. Postmodernism and historical science. |
| Types of education work in the course: | Practical classes – 28 hours; Student's individual work – 80 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Review works, essays |
| Course attestation form | Examination |

Description
of the course programme
"Modern historiography: problems of theory and methodology" Б1.Б4

Field of study 46.04.01 History
 The focus of the programme: European and American studies
 Qualification obtained master
 Programme mode intramural
 Faculty of History and Philology
 Department of history of Russia and foreign countries

| | |
|---|---|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 108 hours; 3 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to form students' understanding of the modern theoretical and methodological space of history and the details of its structural elements. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.Б4, 1st semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | - |
| Further (supported) courses | Methodology of modern historical research Historiography of the British Empire history Research seminar Practice for obtaining professional skills and experience |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | ПК-1,3 |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: theoretical and methodological aspects of contemporary historiography for studying the history of historical science division into periods; the object and subject space of modern historiography; understand the nature and characteristics of complexes of historiographic sources; understand the principles, theoretical and methodological approaches and terminology of modern historiographical knowledge; the typology of historiographical studies according to their genre features. Students will be able to: identify groups of historiographical sources and organize source information on history of the historical science, carry out historiographic analysis of historical and historiographical sources; methodologically correctly interpret the theoretical and conceptual bases, common information resource of scientific and educational literature on historiography. Students will have the following skills: critical historiographical analysis of information sources and research; empirical basis of the history of historical science; methods of text analysis of historiographical sources in works of historians; ability to create historiographical overviews on a |

| | |
|--|---|
| | particular topic. |
| Primary course topics | Historiographical terminology: origin of the historiographical concepts and their interpretation. Subject area of historiography in the context of historiographical knowledge development. History of historiography as an academic course. Models of historiographical studies. Историк как объект изучения историографа. Biographical historiography, historiographical personology. The language of the historian and historical narrative. Psychology of scientific work: features of scientific activity in a historical and scientific community. Scientific community in the context of communication theory. Scientific community: the structure and features of scientific culture. Scholar processes in historical science. Philosophical foundations and methodological principles of historiographical research: historiographical experience of Russian science and contemporary issues. Center and periphery in the scientific field of historiography: correlation lines. |
| Types of education work in the course: | Lectures – 10 hours; Seminars – 10 hours; Student's individual work – 52 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Review works, oral presentation |
| Course attestation form | Examination |

Description
of the course programme
"Foreign language in professional field" Б1.Б5

Field of study 46.04.01 History
The focus of the programme: European and American studies
Qualification obtained master
Programme mode intramural
Faculty of History and Philology
Department of theoretical and applied language studies

| | |
|---|--|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 72 hours; 2 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to develop students' culture of professional communication in a foreign language. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.Б5, 1st semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | - |
| Further (supported) courses | Research seminar Nations and nationalism in the history of modern and contemporary times Pre-graduation practice Practical course on creating academic texts in historical sciences |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | OK-1; OIИK-1 |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: basic rules of oral and written professional communication in a foreign language. Students will be able to: make various types of scientific texts in a foreign language, present the results of professional activities in a foreign language. Students will have the following skills: knowledge of orthographic, orthoepic, lexical, grammatical and stylistic norms of the language studied and use them in all kinds of communication, in the scientific field in oral and written communication. |
| Primary course topics | Autobiography. Family. Citizenship. Country. Study. Scientific work. Abstracting. |
| Types of education work in the course: | Practical classes – 28 hours; Student's individual work – 80 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Tests, review works |
| Course attestation form | Pass |

Description
of the course programme
"Practical course on creating academic texts in historical sciences" Б1.Б6

Field of study 46.04.01 History
The focus of the programme: European and American studies
Qualification obtained master
Programme mode intramural
Faculty of History and Philology
Department of history of Russia and foreign countries

| | |
|---|---|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 108 hours; 3 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to develop student's skills of subject-oriented written speech. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.Б6, 2nd semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | Modern historiography: theory and methodology problems |
| Further (supported) courses | Research seminar Practice for obtaining professional skills and experience Research practice Pre-graduation practice |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | ОПК-1; ПК-1,5 |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: rules of academic work; genres of academic writing, features of scientific style, rules of structuring an academic text, requirements for academic text design. Students will be able to: apply obtained knowledge to prepare essays, speeches, articles, graduation theses, etc. Students will have the following skills: methods of scientific text adaptation to the requirements of professional associations, journals, etc. |
| Primary course topics | Academic work management. Academic writing: genres and scientific terms. Scientific style. Academic text structure. Academic text design. Reports, reviews, abstracts, graduation theses, and articles. Oral presentation, discussion. |
| Types of education work in the course: | Lectures – 14 hours; Practical classes – 14 hours; Student's individual work – 80 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Practical exercise lesson, project defense |
| Course attestation form | Examination |

Description
of the course programme
"Modern historical research methodology of " Б1.Б1

Field of study 46.04.01 History
The focus of the programme: European and American studies
Qualification obtained master
Programme mode intramural
Faculty of History and Philology
Department of history of Russia and foreign countries

| | |
|---|--|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 144 hours; 4 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to develop students' overview of modern theoretical and methodological foundations of historical science. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.Б1, 2nd semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | Modern historiography: theory and methodology problems |
| Further (supported) courses | Research seminar Practice for obtaining professional skills and experience Pre-graduation practice |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | OK-1; OIK-3,4,6; IK-1,2,3 |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: methodological aspects of modern historical science; understand the principles, theoretical and methodological approaches and terminology of modern historical knowledge. Students will be able to: apply methodological concepts and methods of historical research, place them in the appropriate section of the master's thesis. Students will have the following skills: critical analysis of information; methods of historical sources analysis. |
| Primary course topics | Times and history: correlation of history and historiography. Modern lines of historical research. Modern approaches to understanding of history as a science. Values of the scientific community. Modern lines of historical research. |
| Types of education work in the course: | Lectures – 14 hours; Seminars – 14 hours; Student's individual work – 116 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Review works, oral presentation |
| Course attestation form | Examination |

Description
of the course programme

"Argumentative issues in international relations of the XX century history" Б1.В2

Field of study 46.04.01 History

The focus of the programme: European and American studies

Qualification obtained master

Programme mode intramural

Faculty of History and Philology

Department of political science and international relations

| | |
|---|---|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 72 hours; 2 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The purpose is to develop students' comprehensive view of the modern tendencies of international life, diplomacy, international relations, international institutions, as well as of the most relevant argumentative issues in international relations of the XX century history. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.В2, 2nd semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | Modern historiography: theory and methodology problems |
| Further (supported) courses | Historiography of the British Empire history History of Canada: European and native cultures correlation History of Australia: the path to independence Problems of European integration in the second half of XX – beginning of the XXI centuries. |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | ОПК-6; ПК-3,5 |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: contemporary international relations and have a holistic system view on the modern world Students will be able to: comprehend the main trends in the development of debates in international relations and their impact on contemporary international relations. Students will have the following skills: the procedures for dealing with argumentative issues. |
| Primary course topics | Information society and mass public organizations and their impact on international relations. Diplomacy evolution at the present time. The Russian Federation in international institutions. Russian regions in international cooperation. Argumentative issues in international relations of the XX century history |
| Types of education work in the course: | Lectures – 14 hours Practical classes – 14 hours; Student's individual work – 44 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Review works, essays, discussion |

| | |
|-------------------------|------|
| Course attestation form | Pass |
|-------------------------|------|

Description
of the course programme
"Topical issues of Ancient Greece and Rome history" Б1.В3

Field of study 46.04.01 History
The focus of the programme: European and American studies
Qualification obtained master
Programme mode intramural
Faculty of History and Philology
Department of history of Russia and foreign countries

| | |
|---|---|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 108 hours; 3 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to develop students' knowledge about the actual problems of ancient history. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.В3, 1st semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | - |
| Further (supported) courses | Political institutions of Ancient Rome Problems of mentality and daily life in the ancient society |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | ИК-1,7 |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: relevant scientific information about the polis statesmanship, problems of ancient Greek democracy, inter-ethnic relations in antiquity and their reception by modern politics and social development. Students will be able to: apply acquired knowledge in professional activities. Students will have the following skills: methods of analysis of historical sources and contemporary texts to identify the development trends of the ancient civilization. |
| Primary course topics | Polis statesmanship Problems of polis formation Problems of ancient Greek democracy Rome political order Inter-ethnic relations in ancient times Hellenism |
| Types of education work in the course: | Lectures – 14 hours; Practical classes – 14 hours; Student's individual work – 80 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Practical class, review works |
| Course attestation form | Examination |

Description
of the course programme
"Source studies of general history" Б1.В4

Field of study 46.04.01 History
The focus of the programme: European and American studies
Qualification obtained master
Programme mode intramural
Faculty of History and Philology
Department of history of Russia and foreign countries

| | |
|---|--|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 108 hours; 3 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to develop students' knowledge about the topical issues of ancient history source studies. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.В3, 1st semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | - |
| Further (supported) courses | Political institutions of Ancient Rome Problems of mentality and daily life in the ancient society Methods of researcher's work in the archive: archival heuristics Research practice |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | OK-1; ПК-1,3,8 |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: deepen their theoretical knowledge of general history source studies. Students will be able to: apply acquired knowledge in professional activities. Students will have the following skills: methods of general history historical sources analysis. |
| Primary course topics | Narrative sources of ancient Greece history Narrative sources of ancient Rome history Epigraphy as a historical source Ancient numismatics as a historical source Legal acts of state legislation and parliamentary documents as historical sources Documents of management and record keeping and court documents as historical sources Statistical materials and periodicals as historical sources Documents of political parties and public organizations. Pamphlets, flyers, leaflets, posters as historical sources Ego-documents as a historical source. Film and photo-documents |
| Types of education work in the course: | Practical classes – 28 hours; Student's individual work – 80 hours |

| | |
|-------------------------|-------------------------------|
| Knowledge check forms | Practical class, review works |
| Course attestation form | Examination |

Description
of the course programme
"Political institutions of ancient Rome" Б1.Б5

Field of study 46.04.01 History
 The focus of the programme: European and American studies
 Qualification obtained master
 Programme mode intramural
 Faculty of History and Philology
 Department of history of Russia and foreign countries

| | |
|---|--|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 108 hours; 3 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to develop students' knowledge about the actual problems of ancient history. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.Б3, 2nd semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | Topical issues of Ancient Greece and Rome history |
| Further (supported) courses | Research seminar Practice for obtaining professional skills and experience Pre-graduation practice |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | ИИК-1,7 |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: relevant scientific information about the political system of Rome in the Republic period, the period of the Principate, the period of dominat. Students will be able to: apply acquired knowledge in professional activities. Students will have the following skills: methods of analysis of historical sources and contemporary texts to identify the development trends of the ancient civilization. |
| Primary course topics | General state system in the period of the Republic (territory arrangement and legal status of certain population categories). State power in the era of the Republic: the popular assembly, the Senate, magistrature. State system and management in the period of the Principate. State system and management in the period of dominat. |
| Types of education work in the course: | Lectures – 14 hours; Practical classes – 14 hours; Student's individual work – 80 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Practical class, review works |
| Course attestation form | Examination |

Description
of the course programme
"Modern problems of economic history" Б1.Б6

Field of study 46.04.01 History
 The focus of the programme: European and American studies
 Qualification obtained master
 Programme mode intramural
 Faculty of History and Philology
 Department of history of Russia and foreign countries

| | |
|---|--|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 72 hours; 2 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to develop students' knowledge about the basic theoretical and methodological accomplishments and challenges of interdisciplinary brunch of history and economics – economic history. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.Б6, 1st semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | - |
| Further (supported) courses | Research work Research seminar |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | ОПК-3,6; ПК-2,3. |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: the main stages and regularities of Russian economics development; Students will be able to: use knowledge of historical development laws to form civic position Students will have the following skills: historical and economic analysis |
| Primary course topics | The main problems in economic history; The main directions of economic history |
| Types of education work in the course: | Lectures – 28 hours; Student's individual work – 44 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Tests |
| Course attestation form | Pass |

Description
of the course programme
"Imperialism and colonialism in the history of modern times" Б1.В7

Field of study 46.04.01 History
 The focus of the programme: European and American studies
 Qualification obtained master
 Programme mode intramural
 Faculty of History and Philology
 Department of political science and international relations

| | |
|---|--|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 108 hours; 3 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to develop students' knowledge about the actual problems of imperialism and colonialism in modern times. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.В7, 2nd semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | Topical issues of Ancient Greece and Rome history |
| Further (supported) courses | Historiography of the British Empire history Research seminar Practice for obtaining professional skills and experience Pre-graduation practice |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | ПК-1,7 |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: theory and methodological approaches to the study of empires and imperialism; specific features of European empires development. Students will be able to: apply acquired knowledge in professional activities. Students will have the following skills: methods of studying imperialism and colonialism. |
| Primary course topics | Empires and imperialism: theories, definitions, methodological approaches. European empires in early modern times: Spanish and Portuguese experience. The British Empire: the origin and evolution. French Imperial model. The Ottoman Empire: from prosperity to crisis. Austro-Hungarian model of the Imperial statesmanship. Late Empires of modern times: German and Japanese models. Russia in the community of empires of modern times: comparative analysis. |
| Types of education work in the course: | Lectures – 14 hours; Practical classes – 14 hours; Student's individual work – 80 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Practical class, review works |

| | |
|-------------------------|-------------|
| Course attestation form | Examination |
|-------------------------|-------------|

Description
of the course programme
"Research seminar" Б1.Б8

Field of study 46.04.01 History
The focus of the programme: European and American studies
Qualification obtained master
Programme mode intramural
Faculty of History and Philology
Department of political science and international relations

| | |
|---|--|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 144 hours; 4 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to form students' understanding of the modern theoretical and methodological space of the history of historical science, specific features of source analysis, to prepare a master's thesis. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.Б8. 2nd, 3rd semesters |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | Modern historiography: theory and methodology problems Methodology of modern historical research Practical course on creating academic texts in historical sciences |
| Further (supported) courses | Practice for obtaining professional skills and experience Pre-graduation practice State final examination |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | OK-2; ОПК-6; ПК-4,5 |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: parameters of the master's thesis; theoretical and methodological aspects of modern historiography, source studies, methodology of history. Students will be able to: identify groups of historiographical sources, carry out historiographic analysis; methodologically correctly interpret theories, concepts and scientific approaches. Students will have the following skills: skills of information critical analysis; methods of text sources analysis; ability to create text on a particular topic. |
| Primary course topics | General characteristics of a master's thesis as a form of research work in the curriculum. Structural, substantive, theoretical, and technical parameters of the thesis. Theses preparation: classification criteria for information sources arrangement. Discussion of contemporary historical and methodological literature, principles of |

| | |
|--|--|
| | interdisciplinary approaches. Sharing of experience on modern methodological technologies and methodological techniques in historical research; use of network resources, information storage and retrieval systems. Preparation of reports on materials and documents search in archives, museums, Chelyabinsk Center of Historical and Cultural Heritage, at the Public library. Discussion of master's theses topics: justification of topic relevance, planning of work and its structure. Discussion of methodological and theoretical sections of theses. |
| Types of education work in the course: | 2nd semester: Seminars – 28 hours; Student's individual work – 44 hours 3rd semester: Seminars – 20 hours; Student's individual work – 52 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Review works, oral presentation, projects |
| Course attestation form | Pass |

Description
of the course programme
"Anthropology of war" Б1.В9

Field of study 46.04.01 History
The focus of the programme: European and American studies
Qualification obtained master
Programme mode intramural
Faculty of History and Philology
Department of political science and international relations

| | |
|---|---|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 72 hours; 2 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to give an overview of the possibilities and limitations of information technologies and quantitative methods of analysis application in humanities research. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.В9, 1st semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | - |
| Further (supported) courses | Theory of international relations in modern and contemporary times |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | ОПК-6; ПК-2,3 |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: the main approaches to study of war as a social and cultural phenomenon, anthropological dimensions of war. Students will be able to: find interdisciplinary aspects in study. Students will have the following skills: methods of historical sources analysis. |
| Primary course topics | The idea of war and conflicts in different eras. War in ancient times. War in the middle ages. War in modern times. War in the XX century. People at war. |
| Types of education work in the course: | Lectures – 14 hours; Practical classes – 14 hours; Student's individual work – 44 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Laboratory classes |
| Course attestation form | Pass |

Description
of the course programme
"Empires of modern times: typology and development models" B1.B10

Field of study 46.04.01 History
The focus of the programme: European and American studies
Qualification obtained master
Programme mode intramural
Faculty of History and Philology
Department of political science and international relations

| | |
|---|--|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 72 hours; 2 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to develop students' knowledge about the actual problems of imperialism and colonialism in modern times. |
| The course in the education programme structure | B1.B10, 2nd semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | Topical issues of Ancient Greece and Rome history |
| Further (supported) courses | Historiography of the British Empire history Research seminar Practice for obtaining professional skills and experience Pre-graduation practice |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | PIK-1,7 |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: typology and development models of different European empires in modern times. Students will be able to: apply acquired knowledge in professional activities. Students will have the following skills: methods of studying imperialism and colonialism. |
| Primary course topics | European empires in early modern times: Spanish and Portuguese experience. The British Empire: the origin and evolution. French Imperial model. The Ottoman Empire: from prosperity to crisis. Austro-Hungarian model of the Imperial statesmanship. Late Empires of modern times: German and Japanese models. Russia in the community of empires of modern times: comparative analysis. |
| Types of education work in the course: | Lectures – 14 hours; Practical classes – 14 hours; Student's individual work – 44 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Practical class, review works |
| Course attestation form | Pass |

Description
of the course programme
"Modern problems of economic history" Б1.ДБ1

Field of study 46.04.01 History
The focus of the programme: European and American studies
Qualification obtained master
Programme mode intramural
Faculty of History and Philology
Department of history of Russia and foreign countries

| | |
|---|---|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 72 hours; 2 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to improve students ' skills in working with information storage and retrieval system as well as practical work with archival documents. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.ДБ1, 3rd semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | Research seminar |
| Further (supported) courses | Practice for obtaining professional skills and experience Research practice Research work Pre-graduation practice State final examination |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | ПК-1,2,3. |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: modern approaches to definition and use of archival sources in different strands of historical research. Students will be able to: use theoretical and practical knowledge to solve practical professional tasks. Students will have the following skills: information search, interpersonal interaction; they will be methodically and psychologically prepared to work on interdisciplinary projects. |
| Primary course topics | Archival affairs management and document storage in modern Russia. Document repositories and archives of the Southern Urals. Archival heuristics foundations. Methods of working with archival documents. |
| Types of education work in the course: | Practical classes – 20 hours; Student's individual work – 52 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Tests |
| Course attestation form | Pass |

Description
of the course programme
"Theory of international relations in modern and contemporary times" Б1.ДБ1

Field of study 46.04.01 History
 The focus of the programme: European and American studies
 Qualification obtained master
 Programme mode intramural
 Faculty of History and Philology
 Department of political science and international relations

| | |
|---|--|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 72 hours; 2 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to develop students' skills of using research approaches of political science and international relations theory in historical research. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.ДБ1, 3rd semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | Research seminar |
| Further (supported) courses | Practice for obtaining professional skills and experience Research practice Research work Pre-graduation practice State final examination |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | ПК-1,2 |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - basic principles and problems of political comparative studies, and the method of comparative studies. - basic theories of international relations. Students will be able to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - use the modern methods of comparative politics and apply them in scientific and research activities. - apply the basic typology of political regimes and theoretical approaches to the analysis of political transformations - critically evaluate advantages and disadvantages of different political regimes and practices of international cooperation; - understand the logic of the relationship between state institutions and society institutions under different political regimes. Students will have the following skills: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - comparative analysis; - operationalisation methods of political regimes and their transformations. |
| Primary course topics | International relations in modern times. International relations in 1914-1945. |

| | |
|--|---|
| | International relations in 1945-1991. International relations in 1991 – early 2000s. |
| Types of education work in the course: | Practical classes – 20 hours; Student's individual work – 52 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Tests |
| Course attestation form | Pass |

Description
of the course programme
"New museum technologies and exhibition activities" Б1.ДБ2

Field of study 46.04.01 History
The focus of the programme: European and American studies
Qualification obtained master
Programme mode intramural
Faculty of History and Philology
Department of history of Russia and foreign countries

| | |
|---|--|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 72 hours; 2 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to deepen students ' skills in the field of new museum technologies and exhibition activities. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.ДБ2, 3rd semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | Research seminar |
| Further (supported) courses | Practice for obtaining professional skills and experience Research practice Research work Pre-graduation practice State final examination |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | OK-3; OIK-2; IK-4,6. |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: museum structure and museum communication theory, basics of collection management, modern methods of exhibition activities. Students will be able to: use theoretical and practical knowledge to solve practical professional tasks. Students will have the following skills: information search, interpersonal interaction; they will be methodically and psychologically prepared to work on interdisciplinary projects. |
| Primary course topics | Museum structure and museum communication theory. Managing collections and programs addressed to the public. Modern methods of exhibition activities. Specific features of marketing techniques in modern museum management. Museum marketing strategy development. Social functions of the museum. |
| Types of education work in the course: | Practical classes – 20 hours; Student's individual work – 52 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Tests, projects |
| Course attestation form | Examination |

Description
of the course programme
"Methods of teaching historical courses in the University," Б1.ДБ2

Field of study 46.04.01 History
The focus of the programme: European and American studies
Qualification obtained master
Programme mode intramural
Faculty of History and Philology
Department of history of Russia and foreign countries

| | |
|---|--|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 72 hours; 2 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is psychological and pedagogical, theoretical and methodological training of students as teachers in higher education, capacity building, mastering new educational technologies to for high quality training. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.ДБ2, 3rd semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | Research seminar |
| Further (supported) courses | Practice for obtaining professional skills and experience Research practice Research work Pre-graduation practice State final examination |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | ОПК-5; ИК-6,7,8. |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: - the main achievements, problems and tendencies of higher education pedagogics development in Russia, current approaches for educational activities simulation; - purposes and objectives, principles of higher school didactics, organizational forms of educational process in higher education, the main forms of educational activity and its results check and evaluation; structure of modern Russian education system; dependence of learning process efficiency on its content, principles, tools, methods and organizational forms; personality development laws; - regulatory documents on education and strategies for their implementation; factors of personality formation, basic laws and forms of its activity regulation. - ways to create demanding and friendly environment of the educational process, variety of educational technologies, methods and techniques |

| | |
|--|---|
| | of oral and written presentation of subject material; <ul style="list-style-type: none">- how to develop skills of individual work and professional thinking as well as students' creativity;- basics of computer technology and information technologies application in educational and scientific process.- legal and regulatory basis for the education system functioning Students will be able to: <ul style="list-style-type: none">- to use the bases of pedagogical activities in teaching history in educational institutions of different levels;- use the fundamentals, modern achievements, problems and tendencies of historical science development in the educational process;- present the subject material in conjunction with the courses in the curriculum;- use knowledge of culture and art to educate students;- specify theoretical provisions of scientific approaches to the education process and relate theory with practice;- choose and apply training and education methods appropriate to a pedagogical situation; use level of training diagnostic techniques. Students will have the following skills: <ul style="list-style-type: none">- basics of scientific and methodical and educational and methodical work in institutions of higher education (structuring and psychologically competent conversion of scientific knowledge into educational material, methods and techniques of composing tasks, exercises, tests on different subjects, designing educational tasks);- methods and techniques of oral and written presentation of subject material, various educational technologies;- methods of scientific research and the collaborative research work;- ability to use modern information and communication technologies in the educational process;- methods of developing skills of individual work and professional thinking as well as students' creativity;- culture of thinking, a holistic system of scientific knowledge about the world; techniques of working with historical primary sources and maps; ability to analyze and explain political, social, cultural and economic factors of historical development and the role of the human factor and |
|--|---|

| | |
|--|---|
| | civilizational component; - basic skills of analyzing educational situations. |
| Primary course topics | The concept of education in psychological and pedagogical sciences. Education as a process and a system. Trends and problems of higher education development in the modern world. Regulatory framework of higher professional education in the Russian Federation. Psychological features of student age and education in higher education. Psychology of pedagogical communication. Theory of learning activities. Peculiarities of study at the university. Forms and methods of teaching historical disciplines in the modern university. Students' individual work and its organization. |
| Types of education work in the course: | Practical classes – 20 hours; Student's individual work – 52 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Tests, projects |
| Course attestation form | Examination |

Description
of the course programme
"Historiography of the British Empire history" Б1.ДБ3

Field of study 46.04.01 History
The focus of the programme: European and American studies
Qualification obtained master
Programme mode intramural
Faculty of History and Philology
Department of political science and international relations

| | |
|---|---|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 72 hours; 2 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to develop students' knowledge about relevant historiographical concepts in the study of the British Empire history. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.ДБ3, 3rd semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | Research seminar |
| Further (supported) courses | Practice for obtaining professional skills and experience Research practice Research work Pre-graduation practice State final examination |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | ПК-1,2 |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: the latest approaches to key issues in the British Empire history; Students will be able to: use the knowledge about the peculiarities of the historical development of the UK in analytical work in other scientific fields; analyze sources and historiography in the British Empire history; analyze historical processes using the latest methodological approaches; analyze and explain political, social, cultural and economic factors of historical development and the role of the human factor in history. Students will have the following skills: analysis and synthesis of the scientific research results on the basis of modern interdisciplinary approaches and application of modern research methods and techniques in their own scientific work. |
| Primary course topics | Historiography of the British Empire in Europe Historiography of the British Empire in the United States Historiography of the British Empire in Russia |
| Types of education work in the course: | Practical classes – 20 hours; Student's individual work – 52 hours |

| | |
|-------------------------|---------------------|
| Knowledge check forms | Tests, review works |
| Course attestation form | Pass |

Description
of the course programme
"Political thought of the British Empire in the XIX – the first third of the XX century"
Б1.ДБ3

Field of study 46.04.01 History
The focus of the programme: European and American studies
Qualification obtained master
Programme mode intramural
Faculty of History and Philology
Department of political science and international relations

| | |
|---|---|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 72 hours; 2 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to provide students' with knowledge about development of social and political thought of the British Empire. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.ДБ3, 3rd semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | Research seminar |
| Further (supported) courses | Practice for obtaining professional skills and experience Research practice Research work Pre-graduation practice State final examination |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | ПК-1,2 |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: the latest approaches to key issues in the British Empire history; Students will be able to: use their professional knowledge about the peculiarities of the UK historical development in analytical work in other scientific fields; analyze sources and historiography in the British Empire history; analyze historical processes using the latest methodological approaches; analyze and explain political, social, cultural and economic factors of historical development and the role of the human factor in history. Students will have the following skills: analysis and synthesis of the scientific research results on the basis of modern interdisciplinary approaches and application of modern research methods and techniques in their own scientific work. |
| Primary course topics | Socio-political thought of the British Empire and resettlement colonies in the mid-nineteenth century British dominions: emergence and basic principles of the state and political system. Struggle for Imperial Federation. |

| | |
|--|---|
| | Dominions and military and political line of the UK in the late XIX – early XX centuries. Liberals, conservatives and the problem of Imperial unity short of the First world war. Socio-political thought of the British Empire and the First world war. The national problem of Empire and the emergence of the British Commonwealth of Nations. |
| Types of education work in the course: | Practical classes – 20 hours; Student's individual work – 52 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Tests, review works |
| Course attestation form | Pass |

Description
of the course programme
"Historical comparative studies" Б1.ДБ4

Field of study 46.04.01 History
 The focus of the programme: European and American studies
 Qualification obtained master
 Programme mode intramural
 Faculty of History and Philology
 Department of history of Russia and foreign countries

| | |
|---|---|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 108 hours; 3 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to develop students' understanding of the most important processes of modern history, to reveal their nature, causes, consequences, both for Western countries and Eastern countries in general. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.ДБ4, 6th semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | Modern historiography: theory and methodology problems |
| Further (supported) courses | Practice for obtaining professional skills and experience Research practice Research work Pre-graduation practice State final examination |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | ОПК-2; ПК-1,7 |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: material in the framework of the lecture course, basic literature on Russian language, main historical sources on selected topics, contents of the most significant scientific debates on issues of general history, modern and classical methodology. Students will be able to: use professional competencies for analytical skills development; single out the author's concept when working with sources; compare the most important provisions of the evidence forming the foundation of particular scientific concepts; well-reasoned espouse own point of view; train speech and communication skills. Students will have the following skills: understanding of the material studied for further understanding and acquisition of contemporary history insofar as it refers to both the theoretical and the concrete historical parts; preparation professional activity of a historian, a teacher of history; understanding of historical processes; expression and the justification of their position |

| | |
|--|---|
| | on the theoretical, concrete-historical and methodological issues of history; self-deepening and broadening of knowledge and understanding of methodologies, theories, and issues of comparative history. |
| Primary course topics | Origins of the crisis of classical liberal capitalism. Anti-democratic alternative in the societies development. Crisis of the world order. The cold war and competition of human development concepts. Ideology of the West in the collapse of the bipolar system. |
| Types of education work in the course: | Lectures – 14 hours Practical classes – 14 hours; Student's individual work – 80 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Tests, review works |
| Course attestation form | Pass |

Description
of the course programme
"Problems of mentality and daily life in the ancient society" Б1.ДБ4

Field of study 46.04.01 History
 The focus of the programme: European and American studies
 Qualification obtained master
 Programme mode intramural
 Faculty of History and Philology
 Department of history of Russia and foreign countries

| | |
|---|--|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 108 hours; 3 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to develop students' knowledge about the basic theoretical and methodological achievements in the field of history of mentalities and the history of daily life, possibilities of applying them in practice. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.ДБ4, 6th semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | Modern historiography: theory and methodology problems |
| Further (supported) courses | Practice for obtaining professional skills and experience Research practice Research work Pre-graduation practice State final examination |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | ОПК-2; ПК-1,7 |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: theoretical knowledge of general history Students will be able to: use their professional knowledge in analytical work in other scientific fields; analyze sources and historiography in the British Empire history; analyze historical processes using the latest methodological approaches; analyze and explain political, social, cultural and economic factors of historical development and the role of the human factor in history. Students will have the following skills: analysis and synthesis of the scientific research results on the basis of modern interdisciplinary approaches and application of modern research methods and techniques in their own scientific work. |
| Primary course topics | History of daily life as a scientific field. Family and life in ancient Greek society. Social role of family members. The calendar of ancient Athenians festivals. Free time, rest and leisure in life of ancient Romans. |

| | |
|--|---|
| | The Olympic games as a factor of Greek ethno-cultural unity. Greeks and Romans: problems of mutual perception. A citizen of Athens in court. Oracular practice in ancient Greece (on the example of the Oracle of Apollo at Delphi). Daily life of an attic peasant. |
| Types of education work in the course: | Lectures – 14 hours Practical classes – 14 hours; Student's individual work – 80 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Tests, review works |
| Course attestation form | Pass |

Description
of the course programme
"History of Canada: interaction of European and native cultures" Б1.ДБ5

Field of study 46.04.01 History
 The focus of the programme: European and American studies
 Qualification obtained master
 Programme mode intramural
 Faculty of History and Philology
 Department of political science and international relations

| | |
|---|--|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 72 hours; 2 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to improve intellectual and cultural level of students through the study of Canadian history, to learn modern theoretical approaches to the problem of inter-ethnic interaction, and to develop skills of their practical application in historical research. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.ДБ5, 3rd semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | Research seminar |
| Further (supported) courses | Practice for obtaining professional skills and experience Research practice Research work Pre-graduation practice State final examination |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | OK-3; ПК-1,8 |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: the latest approaches to key issues in the history of Canada. Students will be able to: use their professional knowledge about the peculiarities of Canada historical development in analytical work in other scientific fields; analyze sources and historiography in the British Empire history; analyze historical processes using the latest methodological approaches; analyze and explain political, social, cultural and economic factors of historical development and the role of the human factor in history. Students will have the following skills: analysis and synthesis of the scientific research results on the basis of modern interdisciplinary approaches and application of modern research methods and techniques in their own scientific work. |
| Primary course topics | Inter-ethnic relations in history: theoretical and methodological aspects. French colonization of North America and relationship between Europeans and indigenous population. |

| | |
|--|---|
| | The conquest of Canada by Great Britain and Anglo-French relations in the colony at the end of the XVIII – first half of the XIX centuries. Canada dominion formation: inter-ethnic relations in the era of nationalism. Ethnic and cultural interaction in Canada during the First world war and in the interwar period (1920-1930s) Politics of multiculturalism in Canada in the second half of the XX century. Ethnic diversity of modern Canada: political and social perspectives. |
| Types of education work in the course: | Practical classes – 20 hours; Student's individual work – 52 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Tests, review works |
| Course attestation form | Examination |

Description
of the course programme

"Nations and nationalism in the history of modern and contemporary times" Б1.ДБ5

Field of study 46.04.01 History

The focus of the programme: European and American studies

Qualification obtained master

Programme mode intramural

Faculty of History and Philology

Department of political science and international relations

| | |
|---|---|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 72 hours; 2 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to develop students' knowledge about the main modern approaches to the study of nations, nationalism and ethnic conflicts in the modern world. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.ДБ5, 3rd semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | Research seminar |
| Further (supported) courses | Practice for obtaining professional skills and experience Research practice Research work Pre-graduation practice State final examination |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | ПК-1,2 |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: the latest approaches to the problems of nationalism and ethnic relations; the concept of studying nations. Students will be able to: use their professional knowledge in analytical work in other scientific fields; analyze sources and historiography in the British Empire history; analyze historical processes using the latest methodological approaches; analyze and explain political, social, cultural and economic factors of historical development and the role of the human factor in history. Students will have the following skills: analysis and synthesis of the scientific research results on the basis of modern interdisciplinary approaches and application of modern research methods and techniques in their own scientific work. |
| Primary course topics | Functionalist conception of a nation (E. Gellner). Nation as an imagined community (B. Anderson). The current state of discussions of the problem of the origin and nature of nations. Nationalism as a political ideology. Functions of national ideology in political processes within states and at the international |

| | |
|--|---|
| | level |
| Types of education work in the course: | Practical classes – 20 hours; Student's individual work – 52 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Tests, review works |
| Course attestation form | Examination |

Description
of the course programme
"Problems of European integration in the second half of XX – beginning of the XXI centuries" Б1.ДБ6

Field of study 46.04.01 History
The focus of the programme: European and American studies
Qualification obtained master
Programme mode intramural
Faculty of History and Philology
Department of political science and international relations

| | |
|---|---|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 108 hours; 3 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to develop students' comprehensive understanding of integration models in Europe. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.ДБ6, 3rd semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | Research seminar |
| Further (supported) courses | Practice for obtaining professional skills and experience Research practice Research work Pre-graduation practice State final examination |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | ОПК-6; ПК-1,8 |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: the regional manifestations of international integration; experience of European countries integration; history of European and East Asian integration, features of their typological similarities and differences. Students will be able to: use their professional knowledge in analytical work in other scientific fields; analyze sources and historiography in the British Empire history; analyze historical processes using the latest methodological approaches; analyze and explain political, social, cultural and economic factors of historical development and the role of the human factor in history. Students will have the following skills: methodological tools of contemporary analytical discourse of integration studies, comparative analysis of regional versions of integration. |
| Primary course topics | Theoretical issues of European integration. History of European integration. The European Union today. |
| Types of education work in the course: | Practical classes – 20 hours; Student's individual work – 88 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Tests, review works |

| | |
|-------------------------|-------------|
| Course attestation form | Examination |
|-------------------------|-------------|

Description
of the course programme
"History of Australia: the path to independence" Б1.ДБ6

Field of study 46.04.01 History
The focus of the programme: European and American studies
Qualification obtained master
Programme mode intramural
Faculty of History and Philology
Department of political science and international relations

| | |
|---|--|
| Total workload (academic hours, credits) | 108 hours; 3 credits |
| Course purpose and tasks | The course purpose is to improve intellectual and cultural level of students through the study of Australian history, to learn modern theoretical approaches to the problem of inter-ethnic interaction, and to develop skills of their practical application in historical research. |
| The course in the education programme structure | Б1.ДБ6, 3rd semester |
| Preceding (supporting) courses | Research seminar |
| Further (supported) courses | Practice for obtaining professional skills and experience Research practice Research work Pre-graduation practice State final examination |
| Competences developed (without descriptions) | ПІК-1,7 |
| Planned course results: | Students will know: the latest approaches to key issues in the history of Australia. Students will be able to: use their professional knowledge about the peculiarities of Australia historical development in analytical work in other scientific fields; analyze sources and historiography in the British Empire history; analyze historical processes using the latest methodological approaches; analyze and explain political, social, cultural and economic factors of historical development and the role of the human factor in history. Students will have the following skills: analysis and synthesis of the scientific research results on the basis of modern interdisciplinary approaches and application of modern research methods and techniques in their own scientific work. |
| Primary course topics | General description of Australia and its history of discovery by Europeans. Beginning of the British colonization. Australian resettlement colonies in the late XVIII - first half of the XIX centuries. |

| | |
|--|--|
| | Australian autonomy in the second half of the XIX century: "nationalism", "imperialism" and international relations. The Australian Union establishment. Australia and the Empire short of the First World war. Economics and politics of Australia in 1950-1970-ies. |
| Types of education work in the course: | Practical classes – 20 hours; Student's individual work – 88 hours |
| Knowledge check forms | Tests, review works |
| Course attestation form | Examination |